

What I read was so much gobbledygook. Surely an Act can be written that is concise, clear and free of terms that bear no relation to the reality of aging and support for the aging person. You are trying too hard and missing the point... help to stay living independently at home for as long as possible.