I am writing this submission to support the right of the public to have access to Homeopathic remedies.

I am A General Practitioner since 1962 and in the last 25 years have often used remedies as treatment of choice and where orthodox medicines had adverse side effects and believing that the remedies produced a better outcome.

They have greatly enhanced my practice.

It is positive to be able to deal with fevers , sore throats otitis Media, viral illness, skin problems, trauma etc with this very able modality.

What I most enjoy though is the treatment of anxiety ,depression, worry, low self esteem ,excessive timidity with something that is safe and effective.

There is historical evidence and much literature in our Materia Media and Repertories to support their use and after several hundred years is the treatment of choice for many.

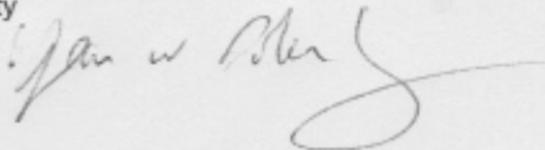

It is incorporated in health Care systems of many other countries and I think availability of medicines and Homeopathic Practice should be retained in Australia.

At 81 years of age am still working as feel I make a valuable contribution and enjoy the mental exercise of fitting the remedy to the individual patient.

Would say that is epigenetic at its best.

Thank you for reading submission.

Kind Regards ,
Jean W Doherty
