To Whom It May Concern

I am writing to express my objection to the King Review report regarding Homoeopathy. Homoeopathy is a safe modality that has been used for over a century as a form of health treatment for many people worldwide. I am deeply saddened that this review is even being considered. Freedom of choice is essential in a democracy, imposing restrictions on freedom of choice for health care is a backward step that bodes badly for our nation.

If safety is a concern perhaps time and money may be better spent looking at hospital admissions and deaths from medications such as non-steroidal anti inflammatories. If health is the concern, perhaps time and energy should be focused on our growing obesity issue and the sale of junk food and soft drink.

Allow Australians to choose their health care. We are a democratic nation not a dictatorship.

Yours sincerely
