

T0010

The service list does not appear to address other mobility options that would be beneficial for older Australians beyond allied health services. Subsidised classes or gym or PT support, under the guidance of an exercise physiologist or physio could have numerous benefits not least of which build strength to prevent falls.