The slashing of funding for domestic cleaning, gardening etc to redirect funding to clinical with no means testing is ill conceived. The vast majority of people do not need clinical care at home, so to provide for the minority, including those who can afford to pay and should do so, most people will not even get enough support to keep their homes hygienic! It's insane. Trying to keep people who need level 4 care at home instead of in residential care, will eat up resources needed by most elderly people to live good, independent lives at home. The result will be poor quality care for everyone, well below their needs. Nobody will benefit.
