

The overall trending towards Clinical requirements for Assessors is a negative trend that increases tax-payer cost with no substantial benefit - Aged Care Assessments, and the Triage of them, relies much more on someone's understanding of the Aged Care space than it does around their clinical knowledge - assessments should be conducted in regards to what services a client wants rather than medical issues. Whilst these can inform what services are needed, they are not a definitive indicator.